Joy Lynn repeats Depreo accusation

By RICH ADAMS

Joy Lynn Ladner, six-year-old daughter of murdered Janice Ladner, pointed to Charles Edward (Chuck) Depreo in Circuit Court late Wednesday afternoon and again identified Depreo as the man who was in her house and shot her and her mother on April 8, 1978.

The agreement was reached during the second day of testimony Wednesday. The trial opened with jury selection Monday.

Depreo, charged with murder, arson and aggravated assault in connection with the murder of Kiln school teacher Janice Ladner, the burning of her home, and wounding of Joy Lynn, was first tried on the murder charge in October, a proceeding which resulted in a mistrial after the jury could not reach a verdict.

Joy Lynn was called to the witness stand Wednesday afternoon by State's Attorney Albert Necaise.

The child told the court that she and her mother found Depreo in a bathroom at the Ladner home after returning from Jimmy Favre's home in the Kiln on the night of the shootings.

"Who did you see in the bathroom," Necaise asked the little girl.

"I saw Chuck, over there," Joy Lynn said, pointing to Depreo.

The child told the jury she heard her mother and Chuck talking, and said they talked about "Chuck's mommy and daddy getting a divorce."

She then said her mother told the person, "here, you sleep there," referring to a second bedroom in the Ladner residence.

Then, after Janice Ladner had returned to the bed in which Joy Lynn was sleeping, the child testified the

NSTL re-groups after explosion

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Testing of the Space Shuttle's main engine at NSTL in Hancock County should resume Tuesday, and repairs to a test stand damaged by an explosion during a test firing are practically complete.

Mack Herring, public affairs director at NSTL, said technicians and engineers at NSTL in Hancock County are making preparations to resume testing Tuesday.

NASA identified cause of a U.S. Enterprise Space Shuttle engine explosion Dec. 27 at the NSTL site in Hancock County and announced a new Shuttle launch date.

The launch date previously scheduled for Sept. 28, 1979 has now been moved back to Nov. 9.

The delay was caused by an explosion of the main engine during a planned 520-second test firing.

Some 256 seconds into the test firing, materials in a turbopump began chafing, resulting in an explosion, reported Robert Froesch, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Froesch said in Washington Saturday the problem is well understood, but will take a few weeks to redesign the system.

"We carefully considered all our options and determined Nov. 9 is a date that can be met if there are no new major problems," he said.

Astronauts John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen will man the 54-hour maiden flight around the earth's orbit.

The Enterprise's orbital flight Nov. 9 will be the first of a "six flights tests series" which will proceed to the Space Shuttle's operational phase.

In the operational phase, the shuttle will contain a crew of seven men or women and have the potential of carrying most of America's satellites.

The Shuttle will launch from the Federal agency pumps $500,000 into Kiln Water and Fire District

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Cleveland Wyatt, Chairman of the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District (KW&FPD), signed a contract Monday to the financing of installation of more than 30 miles of water lines in the Kiln area.

The contract with Farmers Home Loan Administration (FmHA) is for a grant of $230,000 and a loan for $260,000, for the District's water and fire protection.

Gilbert Montgomery, district director for the FmHA, said the project was able to receive the grant and loan through the hard work of the officers and workers of the KW&FPD.

A total of 217 householders have signed up for Phase One of the project and can expect to have water service in approximately one year, according to A. Garner Russell, consulting engineer for the district.

Russell said from 90 to 120 days will be required to prepare plans and specifications in order to advertise for bids.

He estimated six to nine months is needed for the installation of the various water lines; 75,000 gallon water tank; well, fire hydrants; and pavement restoration.

Montgomery said signing of the contract for the water and fire protection project will also mean release of a $40,000 grant for a new fire engine.

Michael Hass, KW&FPD attorney, said the legal procedures for acquisition will begin immediately.

The project will include 12.75 miles (65,300 feet) of three-inch; 10.5 miles (56,095 feet) of two-inch; three miles (15,715 feet) four-inch; three and half miles (17,715 feet) six-inch; and one mile (5,050 feet) of eight-inch water lines.

There will be a total of 28 fire hydrants in the project which received heavy support from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Chamber of Commerce and Farm Bureau.

Wayne Smith, FmHA Hancock County supervisor, said the loan of $260,000 will be for 40 years at a five per cent rate of interest. Haas said other area residents not signed up yet will be offered another program (Phase Two) which will be developed by the commissioners in the future.

Beleaguered school bond issue goes to voters Sat.

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Hancock County School District voters go to the polls Saturday to decide on a $3,383,000 school capital improvements bond issue proposal.

The proposal includes construction of a South Central High School, additional facilities at Hancock North Central Attendance Center and a Special Education Center.

If the proposal is approved, a new South Central High School will be constructed at a cost of up to $2,264,806 on US-90 some three miles west of Our Shopping Center in Waveland.

The combination junior-senior high facility will include science and home economics departments, industrial arts, dressing room facilities, a gymnasium, field house, sewerage plant, administration offices, library, food service, music-band, arts, social studies, mathematics, English, language, business education, special education and driver education facilities.

An additional ten classrooms, restroom facilities, library, administration area, physical education area and band area will be added to Hancock North Central Attendance Center at an estimated cost of $903,888 or less under the proposal.

The Special Education Center will provide eight teaching areas and appropriate administration area for handicapped children at a cost of $214,336 or less under the proposal.

The Hancock County School District bond election has had a stormy past, plagued by incorrect legal advertising errors which voided one election and delayed another.

After a Nov. 7, 1978 election, the bond issue was certified by the Hancock county Election Commission as having been passed by a 60.02 percent margin.

Pass Christian Attorney C. Randall Jones, representing a group of electors opposed to the proposal, contested the election on several grounds, one being the election was improperly advertised.

Joseph Benvenuti, legal counsel to the Election commission, agreed with Jones' contention, and the County Board of Supervisors later voided the election on the basis of improper advertisement.

The Mississippi Code states an announcement of an election must be published in the county newspaper not more than seven days prior to an election.

Supervisors Attorney Walter Gex, using minutes of past board meetings, prepared the publication schedule erroneously because the minutes stated "not less than seven days before the election."

Benvenuti said Mississippi Law states Hancock County Chancery Clerk John Rutherford was legally responsible for the error, but Walter Gex on several occasions "voluntarily" accepted responsibility for the error.

Rutherford denied responsibility. Another election was scheduled Jan. 13, 1979, but was delayed because the South Bay Voter Precinct was left out of Two Los Angeles based film companies are presently considering Hancock County as a film site.

The companies are EMT, the largest producers of movies for television, and Aaron Spelling, which usually produces television series, said Gerry Cagle, executive director of the A and I board's film commission in Jackson.

Cagle explained the possibilities are very slim Hancock County may be chosen as a film site, because film companies consider locations and often do not use them.

Waveland to study drainage

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Application for a federal grant to finance a drainage study in Waveland is underway.

The Waveland Board of Aldermen recently authorized Lewis-Eaton, Waveland's engineering firm for the last nine years, to apply for $14,000 in 701 planning funds to assist the City in undertaking a drainage study.

Waveland will have to match the grant with $7,000 if the grant is awarded to the city.

The WPA (Work Progress Administration) did the drainage work a very long time ago and I think the WPA's work should be updated," said Ward One Alderman Barbara Rappold.

The grant would also act as a stepping stone in acquiring future funds for building a drainage system, explained Rappold.

"The study will open the door for future grants Waveland may need," elaborated the Alderman.

Her term is currently filled on an interim basis by Dr. John Levens. Mrs. Diboll served as assistant dean of women at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge and was counselor to women in the Dean of Women's office at University of Alabama.

Bond Issue...

a Dec. 21 legal publication notice of the election.

Hancock County School District Superintendent Terrell Randolph blamed Rutherford saying, "He is ultimately responsible for the publication."

Rutherford denied the allegation, saying, "The legal notice on the school bond issue was published as prepared by the attorney representing the School Board (Joseph Gex)."

"We published it as received from the attorney for the School Board," added Rutherford.

Included among that group of North Hancock County voters opposed to the school board's proposals who were represented by Jones is Necaise (crossing resident Larry Wayne Peterson).

Larry Peterson has been the leading public critic of the proposed bond issue. Beat Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson is a known opponent of the bond, although he has maintained a low profile in the controversy.

Larry Peterson states, "Randolph has his own interests in mind instead of those of the students and taxpayers."

Peterson also questions why the school administration didn't deduct $400,000 in oil lease monies, to be used for six additional classrooms at HNC, three at Gulfview School and three at Charles B. Murphy, from the $903,858 figure listed under the proposal to construct an additional ten classrooms at HNC.

Larry Peterson also questions why the school administration has not deducted the cost of $275,000 for 6 classrooms, an administration area and library; $100,000 for roof repair and $25,000 for new restrooms from the costs in the bond issue.

These costs total $400,000. Randolph several weeks ago reported an estimated $400,000 in oil lease money would be used to construct six classrooms, administration area and a library to the elementary wing of HNC, new roofs at HNC and new HNC cafeteria toilet rooms at the specific costs described by Peterson.

The bond issue calls for construction of ten classrooms and restroom facilities at HNC plus a library, administration area, physical education teaching area and band area at a cost of $903,858.

... it doesn't seem the school administration can handle the money they have now," contends Larry Peterson.

And he adds the Nov. 2 election, in his opinion, did not pass by 60.02 percent.

He says personal examination of ballot boxes showed only 59.92 percent of the voters were in favor of the issue.

Randolph, on the other hand contends, it is true that $400,000 in oil lease money has been reported for the uses described above, but those statements are not all correct.

A secretarial error listed the administration area and library to the elementary wing as construction to be accomplished with oil lease monies, said Randolph.

"The $400,000 is allocated in this manner," said Randolph, "$225,000 for six classrooms at HNC, $150,000 for the installation of new roofs at HNC and $25,000 for new toilet rooms at the HNC cafeteria."

He said none of these items are listed in the school bond issue, adding, "the roof estimate was increased by $50,000 because that's the latest estimate our architect gave us."

"The restrooms in the bond issue are for the classroom area, not the cafeteria, and the six classrooms at HNC were never included in the bond issue."

"Six classrooms with oil lease money plus the 10 classrooms with the bond issue funds will give us 16 new classrooms at HNC—that's the plan," said Randolph.

Randolph said he feels the bond issue is necessary because the County School district is severely overcrowded due to an enormous lack of facilities.

The lack of facilities have now endangered the schools state accreditation status.

A six-month feasibility study done by Alan Evans and Bobby Stacy, of the Mississippi Department of Education recommended consolidation of the HCSD and the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

But if consolidation could not be accomplished, a new school should be constructed immediately south of Interstate 10 for grades seven through 12, the study recommended.

The study also described the district's schools as "critically overcrowded."

The Hancock County School District area is defined as including the communities of Clermont Harbor, Lakeshore, Anley, Pearlinton, Bayou Phillips, Shoreline Park and that part of Shoreline Park west of Highway 604; and the area north of Bayou La Croix which includes the communities of Kiln, Fenton, Dedaux, Standard, Crane Creek, Necaise Crossing, Leetown, Ceaser, Flat Top, and Catahoula.

Diboll...

Married to Donald Wright Diboll, an Exxon Corporation geologist, she is the mother of Donald Collins Diboll, ninth grade student at Bay Junior High School.

She is a member of the Waveland Planning and Zoning Board and Christ Episcopal Church, Bay St. Louis.

"As a result of my experience with young people and teachers, I feel I am well qualified to be a member of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board," she said.

"I feel my skills and experiences can be applied to all areas of the school system from plant maintenance to curriculum," Mrs. Diboll continued.

"I am aware of the importance of a good educational system to make our students of today responsible adult citizens of tomorrow," she concluded.

Randolph also said that in 1976, shortly after he was elected, he informed Peterson that Peterson was behind $70 in rental payments on a lease of 40 acres of Hancock County 16th Section land (land belonging to the school district).

"Oscar Peterson did not pay $10 per year at a rate of 25 cents per acre for a lease on 16th Section land for seven years," Randolph continued.

"After I told him, he paid the back taxes," said Randolph.

"I consider his reluctance to pay those taxes an injustice, because this land belongs to children of Hancock County by law and I do not understand his reluctance to pay the taxes," proclaimed Randolph.

"I would consider this low rental lease as a donation to an individual—and public property should not be donated," he continued.

Oscar Peterson replied, "That is right, I did have to pay the back taxes for seven years, but I was not notified it was time to pay the taxes until Randolph's assistant Mike Necaise told me."

Randolph also alleges Oscar Peterson has title to an additional 40 acres of 16th Section land which is leased at a rate of $5 per year at 12.5 cents per acre.

"Oscar Peterson also was behind tax payments by seven years on this lease too," Randolph said.

Oscar Peterson said, "My son, Oscar Peterson III, makes payments on the lease of that land and I do not have title to the land. The title is in the name of my son's maternal grandfather who is deceased."

"I am for aiding education," exclaimed Oscar Peterson, "contrary to what Randolph said."

"I built three apartment homes for teachers who taught at Sellers School, I also built a lunch room and put bleachers at Sellers School at no cost to the county."

"Sellers School is on Highway 53 and is now a home and a voting precinct," said Peterson.

Oscar Peterson also said he has been told by several people at gatherings and at ball games that Randolph has asked them to run for the Beat Three supervisor's post.

"If he's that interested he ought to run himself," exclaimed the supervisor.

Randolph said, "Larry Peterson has flagrantly misled the public in his tax explanations concerning the bond issue."

"Larry Peterson has said taxes will increase by 15 mills if the bond issue passes," alleges Randolph.

Supervisors delay FBO appointment

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday took under advisement a Port and Harbor Commission recommendation to employ Aero International Inc. of Gulfport as Stennis International Airport's new fixed-base operator.

The Board will consider the recommendation again at its next meeting Feb. 5 after a final contract is negotiated between the Commission and the company.

The Board also authorized Commission Director Wilson Webre to manage the airport until a new fixed base operator is chosen.

Aero International is the leading fixed-base operator at the Gulfport-Biloxi Regional Airport, states Webre.

Aero International, if approved by the supervisors in February will replace TransAm International, previous fixed-base operator at the airport.

Webre earlier told the commission Aero International is a growing business and has a record of being financially capable, experienced, adequately staffed and able to manage Stennis International.

In other business, Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge appointed Harry Baxter of Lakeshore as new Beat One Port and Harbor Commission member.

Courge's appointment was approved by the Board.

"He's a fine gentleman, outstanding citizen and because he's retired he'll have a lot of time to participate in commission activities," said Courge.

Baxter is a retired lumber inspector. Baxter was chosen to serve the balance of Commissioner John Boudreaux' term. Boudreaux died in December.

Baxter's commission term will be for one year.

The Supervisors also approved Courge's request to advertise for bids to construct a six-foot high, 200-foot long barbed-wire fence around the Beat One County Barn.

Courge said he has had problems with theft from the barn.

The barn is used as a storage facility for Beat One road maintenance and other equipment.

In addition the supervisors approved a new road in Beat Three.

Beat Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson said the new road will run off Lower Necaise Road near Dumery Line Road.

Charter memberships open in Coast Jazz Society

Charter memberships are being offered by the Mississippi Coast Jazz Society, an organization which features jazz performances by "well known" jazz musicians and participates in monthly "jam sessions".

Individual memberships for the Biloxi-based society cost $5, and family memberships are $7.50.

The society said some 20 charter membership cards are left, and may be obtained by sending a check to the Mississippi Coast Jazz Society, P.O. Box 1142, Biloxi, 39533.

The organization has scheduled jazz clarinetist Peanuts Hucko and his wife, jazz singer Louise Tobin to perform Tuesday at Pete Fountain's Buena Vista Hotel in Biloxi.

According to a spokesman for the society, Hucko followed Pete Fountain on the Lawrence Welk Show for several years.

He was also a soloist with the Glenn Miller band in the 1930's and 40's, and headed the band with Ray McKinley after Miller's disappearance.

Tobin was a jazz singer with the Harry James and Benny Goodman bands, and is probably best remembered for her hit with Goodman, "There'll Be Some Changes Made," the spokesman said. "The two are not only two of the most popular jazz performers in America, but they are big hits abroad, especially in Europe. They are currently appearing at Walt Disney World in Florida where they are a big attraction," the spokesman added.

This is a group providing help to victims of domestic violence.

The purpose of the meeting is to recruit volunteers for the domestic violence crisis line and to discuss issues concerning battered women on the Coast.

Gulf Coast Women's Center

Tickets are $2 for members and guests and $4 for non-society members.

Tickets may be purchased in advance by sending a check to Mississippi Coast Jazz Society, P.O. Box 1142, Biloxi, Miss. 39533. Reserve seating is not available, the spokesman added.

has been operating a crisis line (435-1968) for two months.

During that time they report, "a minimum of a call a day" according to Center president Sharon M. Freeto.

Women's Center secretary, Gail Wiederhoft stated, "So far all we've been able to do is put a woman and kids up for a night or two. Some of us have used our own homes or local hotels and motels."

Space Shuttle TV system explained

Split-screen television images will be important in spacecraft docking and in observing payload handling activities in the space shuttle's cargo bay.

But it won't be the run-of-the-mill sportscast type of split-screen image. It will be a kind that uses specially developed electronic delay devices so that both sides of the astronaut's split screen will show the center fields of view from two separate TV cameras aboard the shuttle craft.

The process is a bit more tricky, technologically, than showing a golfer's expression on one half of the screen and the progress of his putt on the other.

This is a straightforward marriage of the opposite halves of two separate images. The cameramen shooting the scenes merely shift their cameras left or right, accordingly, to properly frame the image for split-screen use.

In the space shuttle system, an electronic delay device, made by Corning Glass Works, rearranges the scanning pattern of the image-producing elements of the TV system so that the images from the exterior cameras are, in effect, shifted left or right.

This effects the off-center framing done by the cameramen in sporting events. As a result, the astronaut has clear, close-up views of the same subject from two different angles, thus providing much better depth perception.

This is important because although the two space vehicles involved in a docking operation may appear to be almost motionless, they are in fact two sizable masses hurtling through space in the same general direction at speeds in excess of thousands of miles an hour.

Under these conditions, any sudden shift in relative movement could have serious consequences.

In developing the special delay device for the docking-cargo bay monitoring system, Corning Memory Products of Raleigh, N.C., a part of Corning Glass Works, worked closely with RCA Astro-Electronics of Princeton, N.J., which has the NASA contract for developing and producing the total closed circuit TV system for the space shuttle craft.

Kiln Water...

working many years on the project so the Kiln area will have the water and fire protection it needs, and we are happy about this development."

The Kiln Water and Fire Protection District of Hancock County was formerly the Kiln Volunteer Fire Company, incorporated June 7, 1971.

The commissioners first petitioned the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Oct. 20, 1975 for creation of the Water and Fire Protection District.

The Supervisors adopted an enabling resolution on Nov. 17, permitting a public hearing on the matter.

At the hearing, there were no objections. The Board of Supervisors then adopted a resolution of intent to create a district and by a unanimous vote on Dec. 22, 1975, agreed to the formation of the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District.

The KW&FPD received tentative approval in January, 1978 from FmHA on the loan and grant.

The district covers 10,000 plus acres and runs from Cuevas Junction in the North to Interstate 10 in the South, with Jourdan River Oaks on the West and Rotten Bayou on the East. The area includes Kiln Community, Silver Creek Acres, Jourdan River Oaks and Cuevas Junction.

The current board of commissioners are the same as when the Kiln Volunteer Fire Company was chartered: Cleveland Wyatt, chairman; C.J. Mauffray, vice-chairman; Glen Stockstill, Robert Bilbo and Gene Breazeale, members.

Wyatt reports that Vernon "Dutch" Haas was named manager at the group's last meeting. Haas is a retired electrician from Keesler and native of Kiln.

Billy Sills, North Bay Elementary principal, serves the district as secretary-treasurer, with Michael Haas as attorney.

A fire station in Kiln was constructed in 1977 with assistance from the Seabees.

Some will be lazy Saturday

Some will turn over a second time Saturday morning before they rise for their regular routine and forget a very important civic duty.

The civic duty we are speaking about is voting in the all-important bond election for the construction of a new high school in south Hancock as well as additions and renovations at Hancock North Central, Gulfview and Charles P. Murphy.

If you are a qualified elector living in the Hancock County School District and do not vote for the bond issue you are saying the leaders of our County for tomorrow do not deserve a good education, it is just that simple.

We have in recent weeks heard all types of tales about why the bond issue should not pass.

When we add them all up we still have to be in favor of the bond issue, if the bond issue fails, who will suffer...the children.

As we have stated before, stop busing our children 70 miles a day. Help them receive the education they deserve, so they will be able to compete with the children from other school districts.

Why, we continue to ask ourselves, does politics have to get involved with children's education? When these children reach adulthood do we want to be responsible for them saying they failed to receive a superior education because of politics?

It is time we realize we are not in the horse and buggy age-Hancock County is in the space age and if we are to continue to be in the space age we have to keep up with the times.

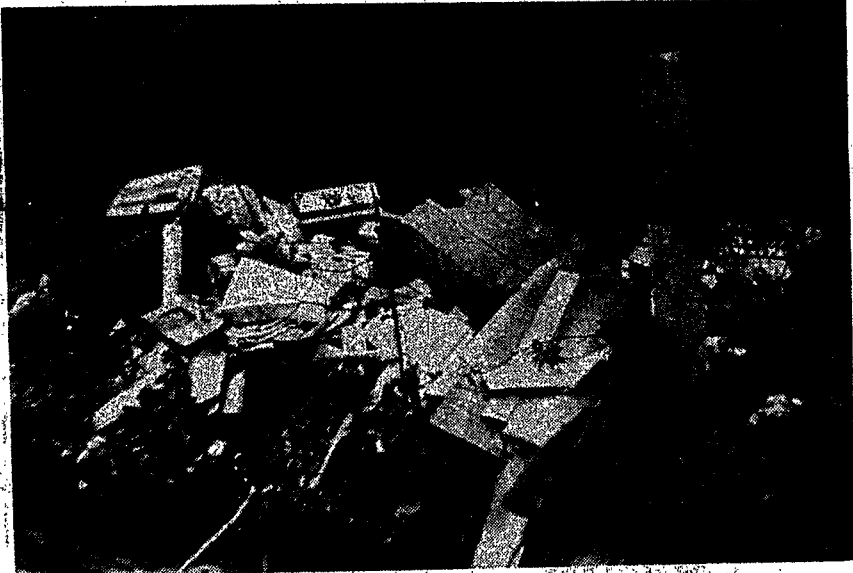

Educational facilities play a very important role as to whether Hancock County continues to grow and prosper.

Everyone asks the question why so many potential new residents have passed up Hancock County (and that includes Bay St. Louis and Waveland) for Long Beach, Picayune or Slidell as a place to settle when employed at NSTL.

Take the time to ask them and you will find many will tell you, they are concerned about their children's education. If they are concerned about their children's education and pass up Hancock, then it is time we get busy and also be concerned about our children's education.

Our children should not be in overcrowded classrooms, bused 70 miles around trip to school, when you as an elector can vote for the bond issue.

Be sure to vote Saturday. Vote for the bond issue.

GARBAGE DUMPS IN BAY ST. LOUIS!—Scenes like this are familiar on several streets in the City of Bay St. Louis. Mayor Larry Bennett reports the Administration is fed up with such careless dumping of trash, garbage and refuse. The Mayor said immediate action is being taken by proper officials to curb these unsightly scenes. We are in agreement with the mayor that the number of garbage and trash collections within the city is sufficient and there is no necessity for anyone to dump garbage, etc. on the sides of the streets. We are going to see what action will be taken, and sure hope the offenders are given a justifiable reward.

'Against' school bond issue

January 23, 1979

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

Doesn't it seem to you that the superintendent of the Hancock County School system is trying to Play the Middle, against both sides?

In the Dec. 21 issue of the Sea Coast Echo Mr. Randolph said "consolidation is in the best interest of the entire county for county patrons and students," but consolidation is not in the best interest of voters in the Hancock County School District.

Mr. Randolph also said that a new school and the bond issue is in the best interest of the students.

Doesn't it seem to you that Mr. Randolph has his own interest in mind instead of the students and taxpayers?

I stated in the Jan. 11 luncheon at Diamondhead if consolidation came about the present school board and the present superintendent would probably lose their jobs and a new school board would have to be elected.

The new school board would then appoint a new superintendent.

This is one reason why the school board and the superintendent are against consolidation.

In the Dec. 14th issue of the Sea Coast Echo school board member Johnny Banks suggested the use of the oil lease money to construct classrooms at Hancock North Central to relieve an overcrowding situation.

At this time the school system had $681,000 in oil lease money and was expecting $244,000 in (EFC) Education Finance Commission money to be spent on EFC approved projects.

The school board president, Mr. Woodrow Ladner, said, "I don't think this is a good idea to spend the money to do this."

Mr. Ladner said the moving of seven trailers would be impossible with only $681,000.

This is ridiculous. Board member Monvel Cuevas said the cost of constructing a classroom is $30 per square foot, and the EFC will provide $15 in construction for every square foot of classroom space.

If you will stop and think what was just said, at $30 per square foot a classroom containing 600 square feet would cost $18,000, and the $681,000 Mr. Ladner said wasn't enough to move seven trailers would build over 35 classrooms - 35 classrooms at $18,000 each equals $630,000 and you must remember the Education Finance Commission will contribute $15 per square foot of this.

The present advertisement of the bond issue calls for a total of $3,383,000 - $2,264,806 of this is to build a new Junior and Senior high school on Hwy. 90 to include everything needed to insure state accreditation.

Some $214,336 of this is to build a Special Education area to include eight teaching areas and an administration area.

At Hancock North Central Elementary, 10 classrooms, restroom facilities, a library, administration area, and a P.E. teaching area are to be built.

In the High School area a band area is to be built.

The total to be spent at Hancock North Central is $903,858.

The school board said in the Jan. 7 issue of The Sea Coast Echo, that they were going to spend $400,000 of the oil lease money at Hancock North Central, $275,000 on 6 classrooms, an administration area, and library, $100,000 on roof repair, and $25,000 on new restrooms.

At Gulfview they intend to spend $100,000 on 3 classrooms, and a library; and at Charles B. Murphy, $120,000 is to be spent, $100,000 on 3 classrooms and $20,000 on restrooms.

If you have read the legal notice in the Sea Coast Echo you have seen that some of the $903,858 to be spent at Hancock North Central is to be used for 10 classrooms, library, administration area and restrooms.

My question is, why is the school administration going to spend $400,000 of the oil lease money to do this and not subtract this amount from the $903,858 in the bond issue?

Although the Nov. 7 bond issue election is history, it was referred to in the Jan. 4 issue of The Sea Coast Echo as having gained a necessary majority of 60.02 percent of the votes.

This is not true, because when Clifford Ladner and I represented by Attorney C. Randall Jones filed a formal protest and asked to examine the boxes, we found different results.

Opinion

To The Editor

We examined every box and counted every ballot and our results showed only 59.92 percent of the votes were cast in favor of the bond issue.

For some reason unknown to us, the Hancock County Election Commission failed to count one 'against' vote in the Ansley box.

The Election Commission said eight voted 'against' and there were plainly nine who voted 'against' the bond issue. Again in the Pearlington box, the Election Commission failed to count four votes cast against the bond issue.

The Commission said 57 voted against, but there were 60 who cast their vote against.

Also, the Commission counted a vote for the bond issue that in my opinion should have been rejected.

A Pearlington voter made an 'x' for the bond issue, and then scratched through it. The voter then made an 'x' against the bond issue, and then scratched through it, and then made an 'x' above both of the bond issue. This vote was counted 'for' the bond issue.

Had this vote 'for' not been counted and the four not counted by the Commission been counted the bond issue would have failed by four votes.

Mr. Randolph has said property taxes would only raise 10 mills or $10 per $1,000 of assessment on a 10 mill increase, and your automobile license will also raise $10 per $1,000 of assessment as assessed by the State of Mississippi. Mobile home taxes will also increase.

I suppose I could go on forever but in conclusion I ask you, are we going to give this administration control of our $4 million?

Can we do this when it doesn't seem they can handle the less than $1 million they have now?

I ask you to go to the Polls on Saturday, January 27, and vote against the bond issue.

When the present administration decides to lay all their cards on the table and put forth a bond issue we can all live with, and is beneficial to all concerned, then we will take a different attitude.

I am concerned for the best possible education for all children, but not to let our children and grandchildren pay for it.

Again I ask you to vote against this bond issue on Saturday, Jan. 27, 1979, Larry Wayne Peterson Necaise Crossing

'For' school bond issue

January 24, 1979

Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

Saturday, Jan. 27, will be a day long remembered by the electorate of Hancock County.

The particular day, month and year may fade from memory of many as time goes on, but the significance of the day will dwell in the minds of those that care about children for years ahead.

Saturday will be the day for voters to decide the fate of more than 2,000 school children. The final tally Saturday night will determine if our school children on the south end will continue to be bused 70 miles round trip per day, or whether our 11 deaf children will continue to be bused 160 miles round trip per day (yes 160 miles).

It will also determine whether we can discard the use of undesirable classrooms that we stuff our young children into for long hours each day. The classrooms that I am speaking of consist of a ticket booth-weight room used by two driver education classes during the same period, the former teachers lounge (12' x 12') for children with learning disabilities, the former book room that is currently used for 2 special education classes.

At the same time, the old cafeteria that has been petitioned by an 8 foot block concrete wall to make classrooms that house the study hall and two special education classes, the Camille trailer that is used as the elementary P.E. office on one side and a seventh grade English class on the opposite side, the new cafeteria dining rooms that are currently being used for elementary physical education classes on one side and five periods each day for study hall on the other side.

These are the atrocious conditions to which we subject our children each day for nine months a year.

Ask yourself these questions: "Could I effectively comprehend and learn after being bused an hour or more to school each morning?" "Could I effectively comprehend and learn by sitting in an overcrowded and substandard classroom every hour each day?"

Saturday's bond proposal will offer to the children of Hancock County the following facilities:

HANCOCK NORTH CENTRAL BOND PROPOSAL $903,858

Please take note that the Hancock County School District is ranked fifth among 152 districts in percent of increase in student enrollment during the past 10 years - a 54.6 percent increase from 1968-1978.

The district increased 160 students from September, 1978 to September, 1979. This one year increase reflects a need of 6 classrooms. Only 5 classrooms have been constructed since 1971.

Let us remember Saturday, Jan. 27, as "a debt due from present to future generations" and that the children of this County are our greatest natural resource.

'Against' school bond issue

Everyone should be interested in our schools and the future of the children of this county. We feel it is time the voters of Hancock County had a chance to see this issue as it really is.

Facts about the bond issue:

1. Taxes

We have been told the bond issue will give us a ten mill tax increase. What we were not told was that it will take another tax increase to secure enough money to operate this facility once it is built.

To say that two high schools can be operated without a substantial increase in cost is nonsense.

The new school will have to be staffed with additional personnel, and supplies will have to be purchased before the school can operate. This is not taken care of in the bond issue.

Since the school system will be receiving money from the state for the same amount of students it now has, no additional revenues can be expected from the state to cover these costs.

This additional money will have to come from another tax increase. This increase may come from a local decision or a decision by the legislature.

2. Deficiencies

We have been told of deficiencies that exist in our school. We feel the voters of Hancock County should ask when did these deficiencies develop? It is obvious they did not develop overnight.

Why was something not done about these deficiencies before now? The leaders of our school system have repeatedly talked about all of the money that has been received from oil leases.

Perhaps this delay in correcting facility problems was deliberate so emphasis could be added to the letter brought home by the children of the school district on November 6, 1978 stating that our schools were in danger of losing accreditation and what this would mean to the school system.

The same letter was printed in THE SEA COAST ECHO on November 18. Could this letter sent the day before election be meant to frighten voters into voting for the bond issue?

As concerned parents and voters, we decided to verify these statements with the State Department of Education in Jackson. A copy of this letter was sent to Mr. Dale Holloway, executive secretary.

His reply stated that the loss of accreditation would NOT result in the loss of any of these: free lunches, textbooks, students attending colleges, bus transportation, vocational courses, or Title money from the Federal Government.

It is important that we should question matters that deal with the future of our children. It is also important that we should vote NO on the bond issue as it is presented on January 27.

Thanks
Jerry Shaw

Dear Sir:

Re: Mr. Edwin Pasciak's letter in the Thursday, January 18, Sea Coast Echo

I agree with Mr. Pasciak that the county schools are overcrowded and busing at the seams, but would consolidation be the answer?

If we were to join the Bay St. Louis City School System where would Bay Junior High put ninth graders?

Bay Junior is overcrowded as it is. There was an issue of the Echo that said Mr. McClouch might move the ninth grade to the High School.

Our problems of overcrowding will be over with the passing of the Bond Issue. I, as a county resident, would not like to take on the problems of Bay St. Louis.

I don't think I would like to go to a school board meeting and be told that if I wasn't on an agenda I couldn't speak. I don't think I would like to see pictures of people taking food out of the cafeteria and not get an explanation as to why and who was allowing this.

If Mr. Pasciak will look in the same issue in which his letter was published, he will see complaints about the city system.

I don't think our country people want these problems.

I don't think the city system would want us because we wouldn't be asking for explanations we would be demanding them.

Large sums of money is the only way to improve education and eliminate overcrowding.

Since 16th section land in the county district is being leased at a higher amount, the Hancock County School District is more than sound.

When the district was poor, no one wanted us.

I've always heard that money talks but this money seems to keep hollering CONSOLIDATION.

The construction of a Junior and Senior High School on Highway 90 is an asset. It could never be a liability.

Yours Respectfully,

Faye Lusich

School architect fees questioned

The Editor
Sea Coast Echo.

Dear Sir:

If you look on page 2A, Sea Coast Echo, Thursday, Oct. 12, 1978, you will find this statement:

"According to Wagner, he and McClouch took trips to each of the schools in the district and went over needed repairs with the principals of each school."

No mention of any inspections; yet when these suggested needs were presented to our school board they apparently approved expenditures of $242,900.

Some $131,400 of this was charged to Junior High (3 buildings) for the following which were listed in the same article:

Repairs and replacement of flooring $7,000; replacement of doors (wood and metal) $7,700; rework wiring in stage areas $2,500; installation of new through wall heaters in class rooms $37,200; repair roofing on all three Junior High buildings $7,500; repair all windows (wood and metal) $800; repair double hung windows $9,500; replacement of toilet fixtures $16,500; refinish restrooms $9,000; repair walk through deck from school building to new cafeteria $11,000; miscellaneous $500; Contingency allowance $11,000 (take particular notice to) architect fees $10,000.

Now take special notice - at that time it was "suggested" that the roofs on "ALL THREE" Junior High School buildings be repaired to the tune of $7,500.

In this same paper, Jan. 14, 1979 some 90 days later, we read - quote

Bay National Guard unit opens recruiting drive

An intensive campaign to bring new guardsmen into the Bay St. Louis National Guard Unit is underway, according to First Lieutenant Sam Allison, commanding officer of the local unit.

Lt. Allison said the local unit was presently interviewing persons interested in training for vacancies in several military fields.

"As a member of the National Guard, a person is taught a trade or skills using the best equipment available and receives pay for his time in training. The new skill or trade may be useful in finding a job in the civilian market or in helping the individual gain a promotion in his present position," the lieutenant added.

Lt. Allison said openings are available in the local unit for marine mechanics, amphibian engineers, amphibian operators, and amphibian crewman.

In addition to the military training, a spokesman for the local unit said members of the Guard are eligible to apply for financial assistance to attend college or technical school under the Mississippi National Guard Educational Assistance Program.

The program authorizes persons serving in the Guard to receive tuition assistance of up to $800 annually while attending institutions of higher learning, junior colleges or vocational technical schools within the state.

The tuition assistance funds may also be used for fees and books and is available only for undergraduate students.

Men between the ages of 17 and 35 are eligible to join the unit if they meet prior military service and physical and mental standards. Persons with prior military service who are over 35 may still be eligible to join depending on the number of years of active service.

LETTERS To The Editor

"Examination of exposed roof construction following collapse shows 'SOME' evidence of former leaks in the roof system, but no evidence exists that moisture caused the failure.

School authorities and the class room teacher say there had been no indications of leaks in the ceiling area in recent memory.

In part, Wagner's latest report added - "There are several rooms which show signs of probably pulling away of lathe and plaster in relatively small areas. Almost all other places show signs of cracks perpendicular to joist direction which seem to indicate weakness along the line of lathe lap."

Being a "jack leg" builder, - mostly for kicks - it is beyond my comprehension why only 90 some days ago, Wagner - accompanied by McCullough - at a total cost of $17,300 in architect fees, tells us that three Junior High buildings needed repairs in the amount of $131,400, and yet failed to notice that several rooms showed signs of probable pulling away of lathe and plaster.

Who do they think is stupid enough to believe that apparent cracking and complete failure all happened suddenly Wednesday morning?

Isn't it a mystery why on January 14 principal Cameron who has been at North Bay for years, and teacher Hamm say there is no recent memory of a leaking roof, yet it was suggested some 90 days earlier that we spend $7,500 on roof repairs that our Superintendent and school board apparently approved?

Isn't it a mystery why the ceiling in one room "suddenly" falls apart showing no indication of defects?

Isn't it a mystery why on the same day adjoining rooms of the same structure were inspected and found to be cracked and sagging and yet a week later we haven't heard of any more of them falling?

Meaning that beyond a doubt this fallen material has been on the way down for some time - apparently unnoticed or without concern.

Based on quotes I can only come to one conclusion: We have an architect enjoying an architect's fabulous fee - on the suggestive needs of the school principals, and we have a superintendent and board of trustees that are willing to take suggestions for granted with no respect or demand of accomplishment to be derived from our tax dollar.

There is no doubt in my mind that had we gotten the proper scrutiny of the apparent very poor but costly inspection of our buildings in October (total architect fees $17,300) we would not be faced with this almost hazardous problem today.

Up until now, no one has expressed the reasons for our school problems and malfunctions better than Percy A. McKay did in a Sun-Herald letters column Saturday, Nov. 18, 1978.

If I may quote - "The day our boards of trustees become accountable to the taxpayers will be the end of several decades of frustration and the beginning of achieving greater goals with our children's quality education in mind."

PTO spokesman review 1978

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

This month marks somewhat of an anniversary for us. It will be one year on Jan. 27 since we first approached the Board of Education in Bay St. Louis with problems we felt should be brought to their attention.

At that time our only concern was to ask the Board for advice on how we could obtain funding to go along with our PTO Treasury for air-conditioning of the classrooms at North Bay Elementary School.

After several months of attending board meetings, we became aware of many other problems, even the manner in which the board conducted its meetings.

It was not until Nov. 13 that the president of the board afforded herself with a new experience - she conducted the meeting rather than the superintendent of education as in the past.

Among other changes in the handling of school business (urged by citizens) were the publishing of school board dockets in the local newspaper, and the furnishing of a monthly financial statement to the city clerk as required in Miss. Code 37-7-633.

Copies of the management letter (originally addressed to the board) which accompanies the yearly audit and makes valuable suggestions as to how the trustees can better handle the taxpayers' money, were furnished to the trustees by the PTO.

At the urging of the citizens, the board revised Policy 18. This revision will make it easier for a citizen to obtain a place on the agenda of a board meeting.

In the Jan. 7 edition of the Sea Coast Echo a list of improvements in our school system for 1978 included:

1. Renovation and installation of new heaters at North Bay. We certainly hope these are not the same heaters that have made it necessary for our children's teachers to have to crowd them - 60 or more - into one classroom where the heater may be working that day; or, see that they keep their coats all day.

At the March 13, 1978 meeting of the board, the PTO brought these faulty heaters to the attention of the trustees. One year later, we have the same problem.

2. Renovation of restrooms.
3. Installation of a security light.

These accomplishments were actually at the urging of the parents. Also at the request of the parents a copy of the discipline policy was sent home to each set of parents to go over with their children.

So, while some improvements were made in the system, some were at the suggestion of and through the undying efforts of citizens and taxpayers who attended the board meetings.

This past year has taught us that our schools are only as good as we demand. We have only scratched the surface!

And to quote Dale Holladay, state superintendent of education, in the Jan. 12 Daily Herald, "People have to be interested. Students, administrators, and parents have to work together for the kind of education progress they want. And if you want it bad enough, you will want to work for it."

March 3 will provide us with two open slots on our school board. To the people of Waveland we say please utilize your constitutional right to vote and then vote for the most qualified candidate.

To the Mayor and City Council of Bay St. Louis, this appointment will be your opportunity to show the people who elected you how sincere you are about the quality of education in our community.

In closing, we would like to say that a large part of the progress we made this past year was due to the expert legal advice we were able to obtain and the competent and fair newspaper coverage we were given. Both were second to none.

Thank you for giving us this opportunity to express ourselves.

Health Systems Agency rejects 60-bed facility

The Mississippi Health Systems Agency's Board of Directors met Thursday, Jan. 18 to review project and facility health care applications. After much discussion and deliberation, the Board rejected an application from Ocean Springs Nursing Home, a proposed $641,525 60-bed facility to serve Jackson and George Counties, Biloxi, Ocean Springs, Pascagoula, and Lucedale. H.P. Cain is listed as contact for owner.

Reasons for recommended meeting:

- (1) Non-conformance to State Medical Facilities Plan - overbedding. The same application was considered at a public hearing in the Southern Subarea Advisory Council district in which the proposed project or facility is or would be located.
- (2) Then the SAC reports and recommendations were presented at the Facilities Review and Project Review Committee meetings prior to the Board of Directors' and Executive Committee meeting.

Hawks, Hawkettes dunk Pirates and their Ladies for clean sweep of Bay High Invitational Tourney

UP FOR GRABS—Sheila Ladner, No. 40 and Cindy Odom, No. 34 for HNC, fight for a loose ball under the net with Theresa Cannon, No. 25 for Pass Christian as Missy Dedeaux, No. 5 for Pass awaits an outcome. The Hawkettes defeated the Lady Pirates 37-34 in the finals of the Bay Invitational Tournament.

BASKETBALL/BALLET—Barry Arcement, No. 44, performs a ballet split after shooting a layup in the Bay St. Louis Invitational Tournament finals. Fellow teammates Dean Shaw, No. 20, and Alan Dedeaux watch as do Pirates Carl Bowser, No. 22, and John Pat Swanler, No. 22.

The Hancock North Central Hawks and Hawkettes ran away with the Bay Invitational Basketball title Saturday night as they defeated Pass Christian teams in the Tigerdome.

In the opening game, the Hawkettes broke open to an early first quarter lead over the Lady Pirates.

In the second quarter the Hawkettes continued the momentum, and lead at halftime 22-7.

In the third period the Lady Pirates exploded for 14 points to the Hawkettes' four point period, and moved closer to the Hawkettes, 28-21.

The lead fluctuated between the Hawkettes and Lady Pirates in the final period, the HNC cagers taking a lead in the final 1:58 in the game and just biding time passing the ball.

HNC came out victorious in the end, 37-34.

Sheila Ladner topped the Hawkettes with 13 points, followed by Joy Lee who netted 10.

Five Hawks scored in double figures in the second game Saturday night as the Hawks defeated Pass Christian in boy's competition.

Alan Dedeaux led the way for the Hawks with 27 points, followed by Dean Shaw's 19. Moses Hill and Barry Arcement added 12 points each and Steve Nunn netted 10 points.

The game was all HNC through the first half, the Hawks taking a 44-31 lead into the lockerroom.

In the third period the Pirates became fired up and scored 22 points, lifting them within nine points of the Hawks.

In the final quarter tempers reached an end on the court, and a fight erupted which emptied both benches.

Pirate Mackie Dedeaux was ejected from the game, and play resumed.

The HNC five ran away with the game in the final period, winning 87-67.

High scorer for the Pirates was Kevin Woods with 20 points.

Carl Bowser netted 14, Virgil Swanler 12, and Al Howard rallied for 10.

Depreo trial.....

Charles Depreo and T.P. Naylor

man in the other room said, "Janice, come here."

"He said 'Janice, come here,' and she (Janice) went to the other bedroom. He shot her, she fell into the bedroom. I saw him, and he shot me in the shoulder," Joy Lynn stated.

The little girl then told the court she and her mother went into the front yard, where the assailant allegedly chased her and struck her on the head with a gun.

"I fell and pretended I fainted...I was trying to get away," Joy Lynn testified. She then added that her mother was in the house trying to lock the door, with the assailant attempting to force the door open.

The little girl said she ran to Charles Curtis' trailer down the road to get away.

Defense Attorney James Atchison of Mobile then cross-examined the child, eliciting an admission she was "mixed-up" when she gave an earlier description, of a "blond-haired" assailant.

Atchison asked about her description, and she said, "I was mixed-up then...I said it was blond," she told the jury. In proceedings earlier Wednesday, Necaise requested Circuit Court Judge Leslie B. Grant impose a restraining order on lawyers involved in the case, ordering them to stop making statements to the press which tend to "try the case in newspapers."

"We, as lawyers, ought not to make such statements. This case ought to be tried in the courtroom, not the newspapers," Necaise said.

Necaise said he was referring to two articles in the South Mississippi Sun, one on Tuesday and the other on Wednesday.

In Tuesday's Sun, an article on the trial quotes Janice Ladner's estranged husband, Earl E. (Buck) Ladner, as allegedly making statements to members of his own family encouraging vigilante-type actions on their part.

In another article in the Wednesday Sun, an attorney associated with the case "who asked not to be identified," reportedly implied violence would have befallen Depreo if he had been acquitted in another part of the state on a change of venue and then returned voluntarily to Hancock County.

Atchison agreed with Necaise adding, "some of the news reports were inaccurate."

"By agreement, the motion is overruled," Judge Grant said.

"The attorneys must be careful about the way they plead their case with the public," he added.

Ballistics expert John Dial from the Mississippi Crime Lab was called to the stand by the state to testify.

During questioning by Necaise's assistant James Thomas, Dial said a .22 caliber pistol found during a search of the home of the defendant's parents had certain characteristics which could match the gun with a bullet removed from Janice Ladner's body.

He explained certain class characteristics showed the bullet was fired from a .22 caliber, High Standard, Double Nine revolver with six lands and grooves with a right hand twist, which was the type of pistol found at the Depreo home.

He said the bullet recovered from the body, however, was too badly mutilated to be matched with the gun.

"I can't say the suspect gun in evidence was the gun used," Dial told the court.

"Can you tell the court it was not the gun that was used," Thomas asked.

"No, I cannot say it was not the gun used," he added.

Atchison cross-examined the ballistics expert, and elicited from him that "At least 40 other makes besides a High Standard pistol have class characteristics similar to that found in a High Standard."

Dial stipulated that only one other brand has identical class characteristics as the suspect gun.

Dial also told the court he did not tests on a .32 caliber pistol found in a creek near the Ladner home.

He did, however, test four other firearms discovered in the Depreo home.

Atchison questioned Dial about a lead fragment also removed from Janice Ladner's body. Dial testified the fragment was between the weight of a No. 4 and No. 2 shotgun pellet.

He would not testify that the piece of metal was a shotgun pellet, however. The state also called New Orleans pathologist Richard Tracy to testify.

Tracy said three bullet wounds were found in Janice Ladner's body during an autopsy, and added one of the wounds would have resulted in almost immediate death.

He told the court death was due to the gunshot wound and not smoke inhalation from the fire.

Tracy said the small metal fragment removed from the body was not inside the body, but rather loosely attached to charred skin outside the body.

TUESDAY'S TESTIMONY

Testimony began late Tuesday morning following Judge Grant's overruling of four lengthy motions by the defense requesting the prosecution to produce all evidence not earlier produced.

Also Judge Grant refused the defense a motion requesting the court suppress an alleged confession signed by Depreo in Portsmouth, Virginia on April 22, 1978.

The motion was based on allegations by the defense that the statement was obtained by violating Depreo's constitutional rights.

A motion by the defense to suppress evidence confiscated at Depreo's Kiln home was also overruled by the judge.

The motions were similar to those filed by Atchison in an earlier trial in October, which were also refused.

District Attorney Necaise addressed the jury in the state's opening statements, calling his plan to show Depreo's guilt "a blueprint."

"I will lay this blueprint before the jury to show what the state used to build its case," Necaise told the jury.

He said a conflict arises in testimony after Janice and Joy Lynn Ladner arrived at their Kiln residence and prepared for bed.

"The first time Joy Lynn saw Charles Depreo, she said she did not know his last name, because her momma and Maw-Maw Ladner (Joy Lynn's paternal grandmother) had gone by Chuck's home when he was helping build a new home," Necaise said.

"She (Joy Lynn) heard her mother and Chuck talk about divorce. We will show that Chuck's mother and father were separated and filing for divorce," Necaise continued.

"Joy Lynn Ladner then heard someone say 'Janice, come here,' and the next thing she knew, Chuck shot her mother and then shot her in the shoulder," Necaise said.

The district attorney then explained how Joy Lynn Ladner allegedly ran to Charles Curtis' trailer down the street from Janice Ladner's home, seeking shelter.

Necaise said Curtis described the six-year-old Joy Lynn as "full of blood" and added the Curtis' did not recognize Joy Lynn.

"The little girl kept repeating 'Chuck is at the house,' but the Curtis' thought she was saying 'truck' instead of 'Chuck.' They thought she had been in a wreck," Necaise explained to the jury.

He said the state will show Janice Ladner's clothing body was found in a bedroom in the home, and she died due to a fatal gunshot wound.

"Experts ascertained the body had at least three bullet holes in it, one was recovered, and was determined to have been fired from a .22 caliber pistol. The experts show Janice Ladner died as the result of one of these wounds, not the fire," Necaise said.

Necaise said a controversy has arisen over a description of the assailant.

At first, according to testimony from the October trial, Joy Lynn described the killer as having "blond hair, long to the collar."

She later changed her description of the assailant to "black or brown hair with slanted eyes and was building a new home in Kiln."

He then explained Depreo's apprehension in Portsmouth, Va., on April 22, 1978, where Depreo allegedly signed a confession.

"We will show you...the court has already passed this as admissible...it is up to you what weight it may have," Necaise said, and read a confession Depreo allegedly signed.

Defense Attorney Atchison then addressed the jury, telling them, "the state has evidence, but we have the right to hold them to what they say."

He said he hopes to show the jury the "overall picture" upon completion of testimony.

He explained that Janice and Joy Lynn Ladner returned to their Kiln home at approximately 1 a.m. from Jimmy Favre's, a friend of Janice Ladner's.

"Use your common sense to decide who perpetrated this act."

He mentioned several discrepancies in Joy Lynn's testimony and also recapped the little girl's flight to the Curtis trailer.

Atchison said Joy Lynn's testimony as to the description of the assailant is "confusing."

"Chief Deputy (Ronnie) Peterson related to officers at the scene of the crime...that the child said someone was at the home. She said her mother knew him and let him in...she recognized him," Atchison told the jury.

"Peterson then told officers at the scene Joy Lynn had described the assailant as 'young, not old like you, with long blond hair to the collar.' He related this description to both Peterson and Dr. (Leonard) Ball at Gulfport Memorial Hospital," Atchison continued in his opening statement.

He showed how Joy Lynn contradicted herself on the witness stand in the October trial, when she first said someone was at the door and her mother let him in and then changed her testimony to someone being in the bathroom and her mother finding that person when they returned to their home.

He said Deputies Leo Woods and Charles Varnado testified, "three bullet holes were found in the front door of the burning home."

"She was shot with a .22 pistol. There were a number of spent casings found outside the residence, and others in the driveway," the defense attorney told the jury.

He said the casings were sent to a crime lab for testing, and the findings of a ballistics expert showed the casings were not fired from the gun found at the Depreo home.

He also said a bullet removed from Janice Ladner's body could not be positively matched to the .22 pistol found at the Depreo home.

The bullet, according to a ballistics expert, was fired from a gun described as a "22 high standard double-nine pistol."

"I will show in testimony that this bullet could have been fired from any number of .22 caliber pistols," Atchison told the jury.

"We will offer evidence as the state is offering evidence for you to hear," Atchison closed.

"All I ask is that you render a fair verdict at the end," he added.

The prosecution called Charles Curtis as its first witness following a recess for lunch.

Curtis testified he was awakened April 8 by a child calling and banging on the door of his trailer.

"I got up, went to the door, and found a child covered with blood," he testified.

He said she was asking to come in and spend the night at the Curtis trailer, and would not answer questions as to why she was bleeding.

He said his wife took the child to a bathroom while he called law officers and when they returned from the bathroom she was saying "Chuck is at the house with momma and a gun."

Necaise asked if Curtis suggested the name Chuck to Joy Lynn.

"She volunteered the name to me...she never varied from Chuck," Curtis said.

The defense cross-examined Curtis, and questioned him about the incident.

Atchison asked if the child had said "truck" while she was with Mrs. Curtis, and Necaise objected, saying that was hearsay.

The state then called Nancy Curtis to the stand and began examination.

Ms. Curtis confirmed that there was confusion when she thought Joy Lynn said "truck."

During cross-examination, Atchison brought out a statement by Ms. Curtis in which she said she suggested the name Chuck after Joy Lynn denied she was saying "truck."

"I heard her say 'he is there with momma,' and I knew it was a person she was talking about. I said 'Chuck,' and she said yes," Ms. Curtis told the court.

Retired Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Leo Woods seemed not to be able to recollect the sequence of events after arriving at the Ladner home and finding it ablaze on April 8.

He seemed at a loss during questioning to be able to recall if he broke the front door down before he went to the Curtis trailer or after returning from the trailer.

Woods said he checked for ownership of a car parked in front of the Ladner home and received verification that it belonged to Janice Ladner, then called the fire department to extinguish the fire in the home.

Woods said in cross-examination the holes found in the front door were not necessarily bullet holes.

"I observed three holes, apparently made by bullets," Woods testified.

He said he was not sure the holes went completely through the door.

Atchison scored a minor courtroom victory when Judge Grant ruled a composite drawing made with Joy Lynn's description of the assailant could not be used in evidence. The jury was sequestered in the jury room while the state called Highway Patrol Investigator T. P. Naylor to the stand to testify.

Naylor testified he had obtained a picture of Depreo from St. Stanislaus and had the picture in his possession while driving Joy Lynn to New Orleans for the composite drawing, but added he did not show the picture to the child.

He testified under questioning from Atchison that "Buck" Ladner had called him on April 14 to tell him Joy Lynn had said the assailant had dark hair, his parents were separated, he lived in a house he had helped build, and had slanted eyes.

Judge Grant said because of Atchison's objections, what the "little girl told the artist is not admissible before a jury."

Necaise fought for admission of the composite drawing and also for admission of a pictorial "line-up," where Joy Lynn identified Depreo from six pictures.

Judge Grant said both were inadmissible as evidence.

Chief Deputy Peterson then took the witness stand and testified for some 2.5 hours.

Peterson recounted Depreo's extradition to Mississippi from Virginia, testifying "no force, threats, duress, or promises were made" when Depreo allegedly signed a confession on April 22.

The deputy said Depreo was advised of his rights and signed two written waivers, and an extradition waiver prior to making his confession.

When Atchison cross-examined Peterson, he attempted to obtain testimony that Joy Lynn told the deputy that the assailant had blond hair.

Necaise strongly objected when Peterson said he had heard from Dr. Ball at the hospital the child had given that description, calling the description hearsay.

After numerous objections to Atchison's questioning, the jury was again sequestered as the defense attorney played a cassette tape of Peterson relaying Joy Lynn's description of the assailant.

On the taped account of the incident at the scene, Peterson said Joy Lynn told him the assailant was named "Chuck." He was young, not old like you, with long blond hair to the collar." Judge Grant allowed the tape to be played before the jury, which asked to hear the tape twice.

Atchison then questioned Peterson on his reason for going to Virginia to question Depreo.

Peterson said he had gone to serve a warrant for a 1978 arson at St. Stanislaus, adding he took three "John Doe" warrants for the Ladner murder.

Peterson said he, Sheriff Ladner, and Investigator Price left the room in which Depreo was being questioned and he returned alone later.

Upon returning, he said the conversation turned to the Ladner murder and Depreo confessed to the crime.

Peterson added he was very particular not to violate Depreo's rights.

MONDAY'S TESTIMONY

An all-white jury composed of six men and six women with two male alternates was agreed upon by both attorneys Monday following some 5.5 hours of jury selection.

Jurors selected include: Walter H. Alexander, a pipefitter; Alphonse J. Mailese, a retired mechanic; Betty J. Necaise, housewife; Paul D. Smith, a telephone company employee; Jack Baumgartner, manager of a Diamondhead condominium; Sharon Hayes, housewife; D. M. Henderson; Linda M. Nelson; housewife; Myrna M. Hutto, housewife; Henry Fly, a state agency employee; James Byington, a retired member of foreign service; Heide Taylor, an insurance agent; Charles Dickinson, a county resident; and Kevin Schultz.

Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis called out names of some 200 prospective jurors, with only 56 people responding to jury call.

Four complete 14-man juries had been assembled before Judge Grant called for a recess shortly before noon.

Upon resumption of court at 1 p.m., District Attorney Necaise began addressing the first jury.

"Can all of you sit there with a free, open, and clear mind and take the law as written, and at the conclusion of the trial reach a verdict," Necaise asked the prospective jurors.

Necaise stressed a death penalty can not be given in this case.

"The type of penalty for this type of crime is life in the state penitentiary...it is not necessary to impose the death penalty," Necaise explained to the jurors.

Necaise then explained his duty as district attorney to the jurors, saying both the state and defense are entitled to a fair trial.

"This case is brought before the court in the name of the state. Because it is in the name of the state, the defendant is entitled to a fair trial, but no person is entitled to a perfect trial," Necaise told the jury.

"As residents of the state and of Hancock County, you are also entitled to a fair and impartial trial. The burden is upon the state to prove the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt...not beyond a shadow of a doubt or beyond all doubt," Necaise continued.

"You do not impose the penalty if he is found guilty, his honor (Judge Grant) imposes the penalty," he added.

Necaise then questioned prospective jurors concerning their knowledge of the case, relationships with both Janice Ladner's family and the Depreo family, and asked jurors if they could reach an "honest conviction" following testimony.

The state then left the courtroom for a conference with members of the Ladner family.

Upon returning, the state requested four jurors be dismissed and replaced with jurors from the second jury.

The defense attorney then approached the prospective jurors and addressed them.

"This is the most serious thing you will ever do," Atchison told the panel.

"According to law, the district attorney represents the state...I represent the defendant, and the court represents everyone and rules on the law," he continued.

"The law says liberty is too important to be thrown away," he added.

"All I am asking is can you give me assurance that you will listen to the evidence and if you are not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that he is guilty, issue an acquittal," Atchison asked the jurors.

District Attorney Necaise objected to the question, claiming Atchison was trying to "elicit a promise from the jury."

Judge Grant overruled the objection and Atchison received answers from each jury.

The defense then excused one member of the jury and a replacement was brought into the jury box.

The state then began questioning the prospective jurors again, and after a 45-minute conference, excused four more jurors.

In all, the state excused its maximum 12 prospective jurors allowed.

The defense challenged nine jurors and the court challenged 15.

In the final two hours of jury selection, 10 jurors were excused.

The final alternate was selected at approximately 8:15 p.m. after some 5.5 hours of jury selection.

Sheriff Sylvan Ladner said the jury is being sequestered each night at the Waveland Resort Inn.

Waveland woman is naturalized

By JOE PILET
HERITAGE EDITOR

It is not easy to become a citizen of the United States, as Alicia M. Caddell of Waveland can tell you. She took her oath of allegiance and realized a dream of long standing. In Federal Court in Biloxi Wednesday.

Alicia was born in a small town, Los Ceritos in the Republic of Panama. Her parents are Jose and Elina Quintero.

"Los Ceritos" when translated into English means "small hills", she explained, and added Los Ceritos was in many ways much like Waveland, "A small town of friendly and helpful people."

A warm welcome awaited Alicia on Wednesday evening when members of her Waveland Baptist Church gave a surprise party in her honor and presented her with gifts appropriate to the occasion.

Waveland welcomes Alicia Caddell," said Mayor John Longo. "We plan to present her with a certificate and make her an honorary citizen of Waveland on February 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Waveland's Town Hall."

"Naturalized citizens from all lands have made significant contributions to the betterment of our nation," wrote President Jimmy Carter in a message read to Mrs. Caddell by Mrs. Nunez (Joe) Pilet who chairs the local citizenship committee of the DAR.

Continuing the President's message she read: "Your new citizenship gives you the right and also the responsibility to take part in the business of our government."

Following Alicia's marriage to an American citizen, she came to the United States in 1965, living three years in New Orleans and for several months in Florida.

In Waveland her son, William, Jr., was enrolled in the elementary school.

Alicia joined the Baptist Church which is located at the corner of Jeff Davis at St. Joseph St.

Then she settled down to the serious business of improving her English and learning more about the history of this country.

Later on when she was sure she wanted citizenship she made inquiries about requirements for naturalization.

"It is necessary," Alicia explained, "to first make application as a permanent resident."

The permanent resident is then required to live in the United States continuously for at least five years just before he files his petition for naturalization in court.

During these years the applicant strives to establish a record as a person of good moral character and one who believes in the principles of the Constitution of the United States.

During these years, Alicia proved herself in many ways. An excellent cook, she found employment in such prestigious places as Diamondhead and The Captain's Table.

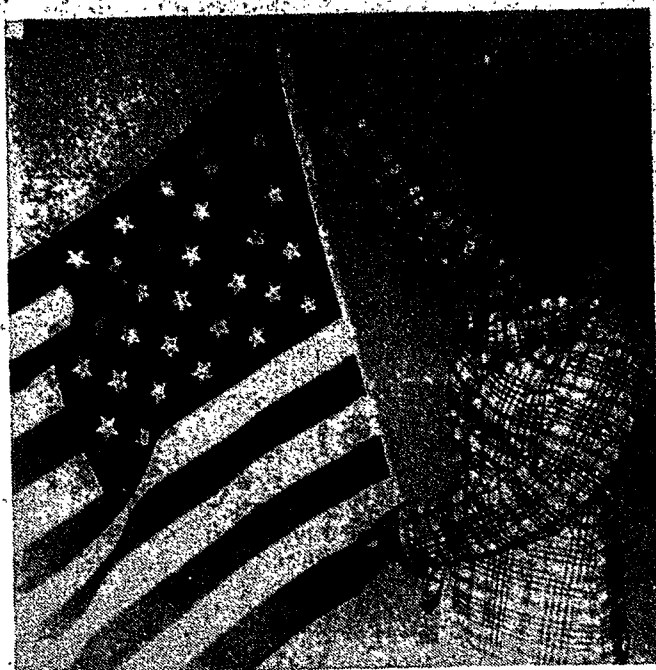

When time permitted, she studied the DAR Manual for Citizenship and was coached in the home of the chairman of the Gulfcoast Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

During some coaching sessions Mrs. Caddell was accompanied by her son, also vividly interested in learning. The DAR Manual was modeled upon the "Guide to the United States for Immigrants."

It is written in simple language and explains the Constitution's preamble, Bill of Rights, national, state and local governments, etc.

Copies of the pamphlet may be seen in the City-County Public Library, as well as other public libraries along the Gulf Coast and are given free of charge to those interested in becoming citizens.

TAX RETURN ON TV
The Mississippi Educational Television Network will present an Internal Revenue Service film "Doing Your Own Tax Return" Sunday at 1 p.m.

As the largest such guide in the U.S., the 271-page 1979 Conservation Directory lists the names and addresses of about 1,650 conservation and environmental organizations and more than 11,000 individuals - from the African Wildlife Leadership Foundation to Zero Population Growth, Inc., from the Northeastern Bird Banding Association to the Guam Science Teachers Association.

The directory lists key personnel in federal and state agencies and departments, members of Congress and those Congressional committees concerned with conservation and natural resources; conservation and environmental offices of foreign governments; U.S. and Canadian fish and game administrators; and national, provincial, and territorial citizens' agencies and groups.

Waveland Hospitality Center is International stop-over

The Waveland Hospitality Center on US-90 "enjoyed its best year yet" in 1978, according to a spokesman for the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District.

Senior Aide Hostess Jean Gleim said the guest register at the Center shows more than 10,000 cars stopped at the location near Waveland Avenue.

Volunteers from the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) man the center, serving coffee to travelers, dispensing brochures and maps as well as advice on where to go and what to see in Waveland, Hancock County and on the entire Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Those 10,000 cars brought Center volunteers in contact with some 32,000 visitors during the year, Ms. Gleim stated.

The year opened Jan. 3, 1978 with a traveler from Prescott, Ariz., and closed Dec. 30 with a visitor from Lionsville, Ind.

Tourists came from all sectors of the globe, with 559 cars from countries other than the United States.

They came from as far away as Australia and New Zealand to as near as Canada and Mexico.

The largest contingent of foreigners was from Canada, numbering 243 persons including 117 from the Province of Ontario and 54 from Quebec.

Heading the "European" contingent was West Germany with 47 cars, closely followed by France with one less.

England sent 32 while 18 came from both The Netherlands and Switzerland.

Other European countries represented include Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Sweden, Spain, Wales and Yugoslavia.

Other exotic lands registered included Bermuda, Brazil, Costa Rica, Columbia, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Hong Kong, India, Iran, Israel, Japan, Morocco, Peru, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, South Africa and Thailand.

Oddly, California, itself a great tourist attraction, was best represented among the 50 United States, closely followed by Texas.

Arizona, Alabama, Florida and Georgia also appear frequently on the register as do New York, Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Pennsylvania.

Perhaps the most unique "home port" reported was "North Pole, Alaska," late in January and the visitors noted how pleasant it was to enjoy "balmy weather in the mid to 40's" at that time of the year.

Many of the visitors from Continental Europe described themselves as "students taking advantage of a favorable rate of exchange" between their countries' currencies and the American dollar.

One of the great enjoyments of being in America, particularly in the South, is an abundance of coffee, a party of students from West Germany remarked.

"At home," they said, "coffee at the equivalent of a dollar a cup is a bargain, with no refills. Here, especially in the southern part of your country it often comes with your meal - and with as many extra cups as you desire."

Never allow anyone to complete your check, and when writing the amount, write to each margin, making alterations more difficult.

Do not reveal the balance of your banking account.

Above all, do not be pressured by "scare tactics." Consider obtaining a second opinion before authorizing repairs.

The "repairman" asks to be paid immediately, and persuades the homeowner to pay by personal check - for "record keeping" purposes.

He may also request the homeowner prove the check is good by revealing the amount in the checking account.

The "repairman" will usually offer to "assist" his victim by completing the face of the check after it is signed by the victim.

The "repairman" subsequently raises the amount of the check before cashing it. If the victim has revealed his account balance, the check may be raised to within a few dollars of that sum.

The scheme need not be successful. Preventive measures might include:

Representatives of utility companies should have identification, or their identity and purpose may be confirmed through a telephone call to the company in question. Use the number listed in the directory - not the number given by the "repairman."

Should you be visited by a "repairman" you do not know, consider checking his record through established sources.

Hayden honored

The honor roll for the 1978 fall semester at Mississippi University for Women commends some 388 students for academic excellence, including Margaret Anne Hayden of Bay St. Louis, who was named to the Dean's List.

Dean's List features students showing an overall average of "A" for the fall term.

Miss Hayden, daughter of Mrs. Margaret D. Hayden, 710 South Beach, is a junior nutrition and foods major. She is a 1978 graduate of Bay High.

This year promises to be bigger and more beautiful than before, according to members of the Carnival Association which originated in 1974 as a parish fund-raising project.

Membership is unlimited and all local and out of town residents can participate.

The hall will begin promptly at 8 p.m. and general dancing will "flow with music furnished by Bo and Dee. Those attending are encouraged to wear costumes as prizes will be awarded in the various categories.

Tickets are now on sale and are available at Ladner's Grocery, Clearmont Harbor, or from Association members. Donation will be $4 per person.
